

Crafting Emotional Impact: Novo Amor x "Leben ist jetzt"

Description

Tracks & Fields is proud to have been part of the moving feature film Leben ist jetzt by Die Real Life Guys. For this production, we were entrusted with finding the right music for one of the film's most emotional moments. Our team researched, cleared, and licensed the song Repeat Until Death by Novo Amor, which accompanies the final scene, where the protagonists say goodbye to a loved one.

A Perfect Musical Match

Repeat Until Death is a hauntingly beautiful piece, capturing the intertwined themes of closeness, loss, and the painful struggle of letting go. Its atmosphere and lyrical depth reflect the experience of something longed for yet unattainable, amplifying the poignancy of the farewell scene. The song's emotional resonance creates a lasting impact that mirrors the story of the film itself.

About the Film

Leben ist jetzt â?? Die Real Life Guys tells the incredible true story of siblings Philipp, Johannes, and Elli Mickenbecker. From their school days, the twins Philipp and Johannes turned their wildest ideas into reality, later building their YouTube channel â??The Real Life Guysâ?• into a phenomenon. With daring DIY projects like a rocket-powered bathtub, a homemade submarine, and even a manned drone, they inspired a global following with their unbridled creativity and lust for life.

Yet behind the spectacular adventures lay moments of profound challenge. When Philipp was diagnosed with cancer, and later as the siblings faced tragic losses including Elli's fatal accident, their journey revealed the fragility of life and the deep bonds of family. The film captures their joy, resilience, and courage to embrace life in all its intensity.
